Ford Backs Johnson For Re-Election

Won't Matter About GOP's Nominee, Auto Maker Says

DETROIT (AP)—Auto maker Henry Ford II says he will support President Johnson for re-election no matter whom the Republicans nominate.

Ford, board chairman of the Ford Motor Co., said Friday his vote for Johnson would be his first for a Democratic presidential candidate.

His endorsement was given to Johnson during the President's brief stopover in Detroit. Ford described Johnson as "terrific" and predicted the President would have no trouble winning in November.

"He's doing an excellent job as President," Ford said. "I've heard him say many times that he's for all the people in the country — for business, labor and the general public. I agree with what he says."

Ford's comments were made as Johnson shook hands with politicians and some of the 25,000 people who greeted him at Detroit Metropolitan Airport. The President stopped briefly en route to deliver the University of Michigan commencement address at Ann Arbor.

Johnson told the crowd: "This welcome moves me to recall an old song—'Will You Love Me in November as You do in May?'"

"I don't want you to forget me later on in the fall," he added.

Gov. George W. Romney, a Republican who has been mentioned as possible GOP presidential timber, served as official greeter.

Some Democrats seemed miffed at Romney's appearance, saying he invited himself. Republican sources said the committee which planned the airport program had bypassed Romney and that he had to contact the White House to arrange a spot in line.

Dog Attacks Mailman On Hand, Ankles

A stern warning to Wellsville residents to keep their dogs confined or face prosecution was issued today by William Long, dog warden, after a mailman was attacked Friday afternoon at 4:20.

Although the dog that bit William A. Rager of Riverside Ave. apparently is a stray, Long said many residents have been allowing their pets to run at large.

Rager was bitten on the left hand and both ankles as he delivered mail at 1020 Anderson Ave. Long pointed out the dog is not owned by the household at the address.

He said the dog was hiding under the porch and jumped out as Rager approached. It had no license or collar.

The dog, described as a brindle female mongrel, apparently is just mean and not rabid but it will be confined 10 days at the city pound to see if it does develop any signs of the disease, the warden said.

This is the second person this month to be attacked by a stray. A small girl was bitten about three weeks ago in front of her home. The dog was captured about two days later but it did not develop rabies.

Long said there are several strays around town but pointed out many owners also allow their dogs out for a run in the evening and in the morning. They should be kept confined, he said, pointing to the danger of a child being bitten now that warm weather is here and they are out playing.

A child may attempt to pet one of the animals and it could possibly attack and seriously injure them, he said.

Rager will be off work for about a week with the wounds. He was treated by a physician. Postal officials pointed out that service can be halted to homes where vicious dogs are found. If a postman fears the animal, service will be halted, officials said, pointing out the rule will be enforced.

BASEBALL HURLER KILLED. The body of Jerry Hummitchsch, 23, of Sheboygan, Wis., a pitcher for the Austin Senators of the Texas League and one of the top prospects in the Milwaukee Braves' system, is examined by a justice of the peace. The hurler's car overturned on a steep curve near Lake Austin Friday with a teammate hospitalized with facial injuries. Hummitchsch had pitched and won a 10-inning three-hitter, scoring the winning run himself, a few hours prior to the accident. (UPI Telephoto)

Undetermined Positions Hold Key

Dixie Senator Sees Votes Lacking In Rights Cloture

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Richard B. Russell, leader of Southern forces, declared today that Senate leaders "do not now have the votes to gag us" with cloture in the civil rights debate.

Nor, he added, have the Dixie senators fighting the bill been able to muster the one-third support needed to block a move to limit debate.

Thus he indicated that if a cloture vote were taken now, the outcome would depend on the undetermined positions of a handful of senators.

"There are four or five votes we don't know where they're going," the Georgia Democrat said in an interview.

It takes two-thirds of the senators present and voting to shut off prolonged debate with cloture. This would mean 67 if all 100 senators were recorded.

Republican senators had their third caucus on the measure Friday. Afterward GOP supporters of the civil rights bill said they thought they would have enough votes, with the Democrats, to invoke cloture when the showdown comes.

But various senators had different estimates of how many GOP votes would be needed. And both Republican and Democratic proponents said they are counting on President Johnson to win over the few senators still on the fence.

Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said he doubted whether a cloture move could be made before the second week in June. But he said the Senate would have to finish work on the bill in June because of a large backlog of work.

And less than two months away is the Republican National Convention which opens July 13 in San Francisco.

For only the third Saturday since the debate began March 9, the Senate did not meet today.

Leaders have sharply eased the pressure on floor sessions while they concentrated on closed-door efforts to wrap up a package of amendments which they hope will produce the needed cloture votes.

These efforts have run into some difficulties, but both Democratic and Republican leaders said they were confident the proposed changes would be in shape to introduce formally next week.

They agreed, however, that there would be no floor action during the week, largely because of an expected high rate of absenteeism. The Senate will recess from Thursday to the following Monday for a long Memorial Day weekend.

$2 Million Ransom Demanded

Wife Of French Nuclear Plane Builder Kidnaped

PARIS (AP) — Two hooded gunmen kidnaped the wife of Marcel Dassault, French nuclear warplane builder, early today. Hours later a Paris newspaper said a caller demanded $2 million ransom.

The anonymous call amid a massive manhunt for the men and their getaway driver, who sped away with Madeleine Dassault, about 65, after pistol-whipping her husband, 72, and their chauffeur, Louis Dubois, 48.

Police said it was uncertain whether the ransom call to the evening Le Monde came from the kidnapers or a crank. The caller was a man, officers said, but there were no further details on the conversation.

Interior Minister Roger Frey had road blocks set up before dawn along the south auto route where the kidnap car headed. Special squads watched airports, and frontier guards were on full alert.

A yellow and black sedan, believed to be the getaway car, was found abandoned later two miles from the scene of the crime.

Dassault, an ardent Gaullist and member of the French National Assembly, was not seriously injured in the attack, nor was Dubois. The gunmen apparently lay in ambush in a stolen panel truck as Dassault's car stopped in front of their luxurious home facing the Bois de Boulogne.

Mrs. Dassault tried to free herself as the kidnap car rolled by. She threw herself to the sidewalk, but the men bundled her into the car and sped off.

Dassault, maker of the supersonic atomic bomber, the Mirage IV, telephoned police.

No immediate motive was clear, although there was some speculation that remnants of the anti-De Gaulle Secret Army may have had a hand in it.

Seven hours after the kidnaping police had received no demand for ransom.

Two motorists chased the getaway car, but it outdistanced them on the freeway leading to Versailles and beyond.

An eyewitness, Marcel Leaux, 45, of Paris, said Mrs. Dassault had whacked one assailant in the stomach with her umbrella. Her gold powder compact was found on the sidewalk.

Dassault designed the propeller for the famed World War I Spad fighter plane and built various military and civilian planes from 1918 to 1939.

He now is producing the supersonic, delta-wing, jet Mystere Mirage bomber. The plane, fourth in the Mirage series, is to haul France's nuclear bomb as the backbone of de Gaulle's nuclear striking force.

The Dassaults have two sons, Claude and Serge.

2 Young Canfield Men Hurt In Plane Crash

JAMESTOWN, Pa. (AP)—A single-engine plane crashed into Pymatuning Lake Friday night, slightly injuring two young Ohio men.

Timothy J. Moran, 18, and Larry Berlin, 22, both of Canfield, were rescued by three fishermen and treated for minor cuts and bruises at Greenville Hospital.

Moran told authorities a wing tip hit the water as they were making a low turn over the lake. The craft went down in about four feet of water.

The plane belonged to Southern Airways, Inc., of Boardman, Ohio.

U.S. Internal Revenue Chief To Quit Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mortimer M. Caplin, who sought to provide friendly service in what many U.S. citizens regard as an unfriendly field — collecting taxes — is quitting his job as commissioner of Internal Revenue.

His resignation, effective July 10, has been accepted with regret by President Johnson.

Caplin, appointed as head U.S. tax collector by the late President John F. Kennedy Feb. 7, 1961, told Johnson that "personal responsibilities are compelling me to leave government and return to private life."

At the time of his appointment Caplin was law professor at the University of Virginia and a practicing lawyer in Charlottesville. He specialized in tax law.

When he took office, Caplin set out to encourage the taxpayer by offering friendly service.

"The taxpayer is going to get a good deal more assistance," he said.

He aimed at expanded tax education and improved tax forms and instruction sheets.

When he set out in 1962 to end what he called "expense account living" and outlined some stiff new regulations governing expense account deductions, many businessmen saw nothing friendly in the action.

After conferences some of the regulations were altered to meet objections.

The job Caplin is leaving pays $21,000 a year. When he was appointed he was reputed to have given up a combined income of $50,000 as professor and lawyer.

U.S. Plane Hit By Red Ground Fire

Makes It Back To Carrier; Jets To Continue Flights

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—The beleaguered neutralist government of Laos is seeking military and economic aid from the United States, Britain and France to stem the swelling tide of communism.

Premier Souvanna Phouma made the announcement Friday as U.S. jets continued their reconnaissance flights over Lao territory held by the pro-Communist Pathet Lao forces.

One plane — a Navy RF8 Crusader jet — was hit by Pathet Lao ground fire but made it back to an American carrier in the South China Sea. U. S. sources in Washington said the plane had been slightly damaged and the pilot was uninjured.

U.S. officials indicated that the flights would continue, gathering information on Pathet Lao military movements as well as serving as a warning to the Communists of American determination in Southeast Asia.

In Washington there were new indications that the United States is preparing to expand its military role in Southeast Asia if Communist pressures does not ease on Laos and South Viet Nam.

U.S. officials said they had not yet received the Laotian request for help but disclosed the unarmed jet reconnaissance planes had been sent aloft Thursday at Souvanna's request.

Souvanna told newsmen that "we are going to ask aid from France, the United States and Britain — both military and economic — for the defense of the country's unity. We are now in the process of establishing our needs."

The United States withdrew its military advisors from Laos after the 1962 Geneva agreement guaranteeing the independence and neutrality of the little landlocked kingdom under a coalition government of rightists, neutralists and pro-Communists.

Unseasonable? Hot's Outlook For Weekend

The Ohio weatherman used the phrase "unseasonably warm" for the weekend forecast. Translated, that means hot and humid.

The mercury was expected to climb into the low 90's today for the warmest weather this year and there will be slowly increasing humidity tonight and through Sunday. There is a chance of a few afternoon showers tomorrow.

Brief showers about noon may have served to reduce the expected high for the afternoon, but they helped raise the humidity.

Indicative of the warmup, the downtown had 55 at 5 a. m. today but tonight's low range will be 60 to 66. And the same 90-or-more high is expected tomorrow.

TALLMADGE, Ohio (AP) — John A. Sperry Sr., a pioneer in glider flight in the United States, is dead at 67.

To Stem Red Tide

Laos Asks Military And Economic Aid From 'Big Three'

Unless Crisis Cools Off

Broader U.S. Military Moves Indicated In Asia

WASHINGTON (AP) — Evidence was building today that the United States was preparing for broader military action in Southeast Asia unless the crisis there cools off soon.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk unfurled the warning signals in a speech Friday night. He accused Red North Viet Nam of aggression against Laos and South Viet Nam, and he declared the South Viet Nam war may be expanded "if the Communists persist in their course of aggression."

The blunt words from the usually mild Rusk were taken as a possibility of action directly against North Viet Nam, a move that has drawn increasing discussion here since the Laotian crisis began developing a week ago.

Rusk said the United States has made it clear it is not going to abandon people and this, he stressed, is a signal which must be read with great care in other capitals, particularly Hanoi and Peking.

On the diplomatic front, Rusk's speech before the American Law Institute meeting here also indicated the United States and its allies had received no encouragement in their efforts to persuade the Communists to end their drives in Southeast Asia.

There were persistent reports President Johnson will make some basic decisions on the U.S. course in Southeast Asia within the next few days.

Beefing up its force in Southeast Asia, the United States has moved a carrier task force into the South China Sea off South Viet Nam.

The carrier will be used to launch U.S. Navy Crusader jets on reconnaissance missions over Communist Pathet Lao areas in Laos.

One such plane, swooping in for low-level photographs, was reported hit by Pathet Lao ground fire but made it back to the carrier Kitty Hawk.

The State Department disclosed that the first reports from the reconnaissance flights have been turned over to the Laos government and the International Control Commission charged with supervising Laos' neutrality.

The Soviet Union denounced U.S. policy Friday as the main source of tension in Southeast Asia but backed a French call for a new 14-nation conference to restore peace in Laos.

It was part of a flurry of diplomatic activity centering on the strife in Laos. But the renewal of border conflict between Cambodia and South Viet Nam and increased Communist activity against the U.S.-backed South Vietnamese government stirred Western fears for all of Southeast Asia.

Ex-U.S. Envoy In Craft

Plane's Missing With 7 Aboard

TAMPICO, Mexico (AP) — A chartered plane carrying delegates S. Morrison, former U.S. ambassador to the Organization of American States, one of his sons and five other persons was missing today on a flight from Matamoros to Tampico.

U.S. and Mexican airplanes and helicopters joined in a search for the twin-engine Piper Aztec, which was to have reached this Gulf Coast city at 6:05 p.m. Friday.

Hope prevailed that the craft might have made an emergency landing at one of the many ranches or small airfields on the route south from the Texas border.

Morrison and five other persons had flown Friday from New Orleans to Corpus Christi, Tex., where Morrison chartered the Aztec. Its pilot was identified as Hugh Ward, Corpus Christi.

Morrison had his youngest son, Randy, 7, on the trip.

Names of the other passengers were not immediately learned, but one of them was said to be a child.

A Tampico businessman, Adolfo Bresling, said Morrison had been here last month for several days and consulted Tampico businessmen about a business transaction.

Morrison and a group of Louisiana men were interested in a meat-canning investment in the Tampico area, a Tampico newspaper said.

A former mayor of New Orleans, Morrison made an unsuccessful bid for Democratic nomination as governor in Louisiana's Jan. 11 Democratic runoff balloting. The winner was John McKeithen, now governor of the state.

Matamoros is across the border from Brownsville, Tex.

7 Subdivisions To Share Special Election Expense

The County Election Board certified to County Auditor Kenneth Bell Friday the apportionment of expenses for special elections held in seven subdivisions on the same day as the May 5 primaries.

The total cost is $1,082.24, including $939.99 for ballots and $142.25 for legal advertising, Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk, said.

In special elections held in connection with primaries, the subdivisions are required to pay only for the cost of ballots and legal advertising. They are not charged with other expenses, such as salaries for poll workers, transportation, cost of setting up precinct equipment, rent and poll books, O'Hanlon explained.

The East Liverpool School district was billed $569.16 including $526.96 for ballots and $42.20 for legal advertising for two levies it submitted.

Expenses for the other subdivisions where special elections were held:

Beaver Local School District, $128.73, $107.63 for ballots and $21.10 for advertising; Southern Local, $100.35, $76.50 and $23.85; Columbiana Exempted Village, $94.15, $78.40 and $15.75; United Local, $120.20, $100.50 and $19.70, and West Township, $69.65, $50 and $19.65.

In addition, the county is billed $1,173 for the state road bond issue, including $1,059.38 for ballots, $101.76 for advertising, and $11.86 to post copies of the proposed amendment in each polling place, O'Hanlon said.

Tile Contract Let By Board At Wellsville

2 Teachers Hired, Salary Schedule Of Fall Term Approved

A contract for the installation of tile in the high school auditorium was awarded Friday night by the Wellsville Board of Education, which also hired two new teachers, discussed the new curriculum for the Daw Junior High School, and approved the 1964-65 salary schedule. The four-hour session ended at 11:30.

The contract for laying the vinyl asbestos tile in the auditorium, which is being completely renovated, went to the Durable Floor Co. of Youngstown on its base bid of $1,205.

Bratt & Lowers of Wellsville entered a base bid of $1,450. The board also accepted an option from the Youngstown firm for installation of a rubber strip on the risers of the steps leading to the stage at a cost of $48 and for the installation of a vinyl rug runner down each aisle for $420.

The colors were selected for the wall paint. A discussion was held on redesigning the stage front. It was reported a curtain for the stage will cost $320. Prices will be obtained on a backdrop.

The work on the renovation has started.

Miss Audrey Hicks was hired as an elementary instructor at a salary of $6,000 and Miss Ruth Mackall as an elementary instructor at $4,675.

Miss Hicks taught in the Hancock County system and has a master's degree. Miss Mackall taught in the Beaver Local system.

The board accepted the resignation of Mrs. Frances Stepro as English teacher. She is moving from town.

The salary schedule for the coming term was approved without any changes from the current schedule.

ing term and a change in the Daw School curriculum, Supt. Lowell Myers reported a new teacher must be hired at Daw School.

In presenting the projected school enrollment, he said there will be at least 30 or 40 more pupils next year. This is a conservative estimate, he said.

Elementary pupils from 18th St. Heights will be transported by bus to MacDonald School next term. These children had been attending Southern Local Schools as tuition students.

Supt. Myers said there is a definite need for more time in language arts in the junior high system. The program will be expanded to an eight-period day instead of the normal six periods.

This will allow the teaching of reading in all seventh and eighth grades. The students then will have one activity period and will be given an opportunity for an elective subject. They also will have physical education periods.

The new periods will be 37 minutes with three minutes between classes.

Mrs. Dora DuMoulin, third grade teacher at Garfield, was hired as summer reading instructor for June at the rate of half her daily salary.

This reading class is open to any third, fourth, fifth or sixth grade student in the system. It is especially helpful to those who have difficulty in this subject, it was pointed out.

The board approved adoption of the Laidlaw Co. textbook series, "Using Good English," for the third through sixth grades. The texts were selected by the elementary English committee of teachers. The list of graduating seniors was approved.

The board also authorized two additions to the board policy booklet. One permits leave of absence for study or travel after a teacher has completed five years of service and the other stipulates no junior high pupil shall be detained more than 30 minutes after school or be required to report to school more than 30 minutes prior to opening time as detention for disciplinary reasons.

A discussion was held on the summer maintenance program. The board will tour the buildings to determine what is to be done.

Earl Mundy, supervisor of custodians and maintenance, reported on work and said a new fence is to be built at McKinley School.

Supt. Myers said a Business, Industry and Education day will be held next term. He said representatives of various businesses and manufacturers will be invited to visit the classrooms.

He also reported on a Career Night program held for the high school students. Eleven business, professional and trades people spoke to the students on various fields of work.

The board approved a band trip to play at the Ohio State Fair at Columbus Aug. 28.

Supt. Myers said the Wellsville Jaycees had made an offer to construct a pressbox at Nicholson field. He said he is awaiting plans and specifications to present the board for approval.

Mrs. Harold Reed of Russell Heights sent a suggestion and sketch for blocking a section of Center St. and 9th St. to allow young children to cross the streets in assured safety.

A lengthy discussion was held on the need for barricades and the inconvenience of the residents of the area. A discussion also was held on the need for safety devices at other locations in town.

The board agreed informally to check into the possibility of having red lights installed that could be operated manually to halt traffic in all directions at the business intersection during the time students would be on the street.

A lengthy discussion also was held on a recommendation from the Wellsville City Teachers Association concerning when a substitute should be taken off sub pay and hired under contract.

The board recently adopted a policy that if the substitute works on the same job 10 consecutive days, he or she shall be placed under contract and receive regular wages instead of the substitute pay of $15 a day.

The association suggested this be changed to read that the substitute work 60 days. The board finally agreed the recommendation, but added that exceptions can be made on recommendation of the superintendent to the board before the period is up.

A contract for cleaning, repairing and servicing the school typewriters went to the Valley Office Equipment Co. of Wheeling on its lone bid of $7 per machine. The price was $6.50 last year.

Raymond S. Rolley clerk, said the annual appraisal of the school property has been made for insurance purposes. The insurance will remain the same, he said.

William Ferrall, board member, suggested that each class and school organization use the same type of records for keeping track of the funds needed to operate.

An audit is made of the books of each class and group at the end of each term. Using the same forms would make it easier for the auditing and keeping an account of the monies involved, Ferrall commented.

A group picture of the board was taken for the school annual.

The board will hold an executive meeting Thursday night at 7:30 with Earl Fowler of the State Department of Education concerning vocational training programs.

Drivers Cited Following 2 City Mishaps

Two motorists were cited by police after minor mishaps Friday night in which no one was injured.

Frank Hanlon, 21, of 112 W. Center Ln., was cited for driving without an operator's permit after he bumped a parked auto while attempting to park.

Hanlon told officers he felt himself becoming ill and was attempting to park when he bumped the rear of a parked 1964 sedan owned by Robert Keith Hargreaves, 318 Broadway, Wellsville.

Hanlon was taken to City Hospital where he was released after an examination.

The mishap was timed at 5:45 p.m., about 1,000 feet west of W. 9th St.

Harry Beegle, 74, of Cannons Mills was accused of failing to stop within the assured clear distance as the aftermath of a rear-end collision at 7:38 p.m. on W. 3rd St. near Jefferson St.

Police said Beegle's auto struck the rear of a car operated by Frederick A. Lisle, 18, of 313 Broadway, who was headed east.

Lisle said he slowed for traffic when his auto was hit. Beegle told officers he was traveling "very slow," but officers said skid marks measured approximately 30 feet.

Harry R. Bridge, 52, of 1000 St. John St. told police the right front fender and headlight of his auto were damaged by a board sticking out of debris at W. 7th and Jackson Sts. The accident was timed at 8:38 p.m.

Bridge said he had made a left turn from W. 7th onto Jackson and then stopped for another vehicle. When he started to move, he struck the board in the debris from a building being demolished at W. 7th and Jackson Sts.

2 Boys, Both 9, Sentenced For Holdup Attempt

ELIZABETH, N.J. (AP)—Two shoeshine boys who could barely look over the long table in front of the judge's bench were sentenced Friday for a holdup attempt last March.

On March 27, bartender Patrick Vahey, 36, was alone in a tavern when he was startled by a "don't move mister."

Vahey looked into the business end of a 32-caliber revolver. He managed to disarm the bandit but couldn't hold him. Later the youngster was caught along with a second, both 9 years old, who had served as lookout in front of the tavern.

Union County Judge V. William Di Buono sentenced the boy who had the gun to Jamesburg State Home for Boys for rehabilitative treatment, and also directed that the youngster receive psychiatric care.

Lions Hear Lower

County Planning Objectives Told

Preliminary reports from six committees assembling facts and data on the county will be presented at a meeting of the Columbiana County Regional Planning Commission June 11 in Lisbon, Floyd V. Lower, president, told the Lions Club Friday afternoon at the Travelers Hotel.

A director from another county planning group will attend the session to review the reports and discuss the essential elements, Lower said.

THE COMMITTEES composed of some 135 county residents are gathering facts for the reports, Lower explained.

One of the chief objectives now is to help people understand what planning includes and how it is developed. Some 15 speakers are available to meet with various organizations to explain the program, he added.

Sometime within a year the commission hopes to hire a director and the necessary employees or engage a consulting firm, Lower said.

The commission met with representatives of Carroll V. Hill Associates of Columbus, which is the East Liverpool consultant, to discuss the possibility of tying in with the city's planning work, Lower said, adding that it was decided the county is not ready to proceed.

HE EXPLAINED a regional planning commission includes the county and municipalities while county planning groups are limited to areas outside municipalities.

The regional planning group has 20 members, including four from East Liverpool, one from Columbiana, three county commissioners, county engineer, eight from the townships and three at-large members.

It does not have as much authority as municipal planning organizations since it can make only recommendations to elective officials.

Zoning is not necessarily included in a comprehensive plan, Lower continued, but pointed out zoning generally is more effective if it follows planning. At present, surrounding counties are zoned, but Perry Township is the only county area which is zoned, he said.

A SOIL survey of Columbiana County already has been completed. It details the types of soil found in each area, suitability for ponds and septic tanks, corrosive effects on pipes, suitability for homes and the depth of bed rock.

Generally, the county has not taken advantage of its location or resources, Lower said. He pointed out the county is bound by four great industrial areas — Youngstown - Warren, Akron-Canton, Steubenville-Wheeling and Pittsburgh — but there is little industry here.

A survey showed 29 per cent of the county residents work outside the county compared to an average in most counties of about 11 per cent. Although the wages generally are spent in the county, the tax base to support schools and local government activities is missing, he emphasized.

BEAVER Creek State Park could be a tremendous asset to the county, he said, explaining that it attracted 150,000 visitors last year although relatively unknown. Lower has been active in the County Parks and Forest Council, which is pushing for development of the park and acquisition of additional land.

He was introduced by James Boyd, county commissioner, who was program chairman. John T. Smith, president, presided.

Members were reminded the club's annual broom sale to raise funds for charitable activities, primarily sight-s a ving, will begin Monday night. Edward Custer asked members to

-But To Us, It's Taxes

Defense Secretary McNamara, a man bearing weighty international responsibilities, is warning Congress not to cut military aid programs this year, as it has in past years. He says Congress "has made a shambles out of past military aid programs" and quotes Gen. Maxwell T. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, to this effect.

Secretary McNamara says the world situation does not justify the legislative urge to cut back military aid programs. Yet he knows that the urge to cut these appropriations is a fixation of congressional thought. Why? Are representatives and senators less heedful of the world situation than spokesmen for the executive department who criticize Congress on this score?

THIS IS A mystery in federal operation — this carping criticism of legislative prudence by executive department spokesmen. What accounts for the disparity in viewpoints?

Isn't it obvious the executive spokesmen think only of the results they could bring about with unlimited amounts of money, while legislators, especially representatives, think also of the money that must be taken from taxpayers to foot the bill? Congress, itself, can be mindless of money when it lets itself be carried away. But sooner or later Congress must face a moment of truth when the bills fall due.

The executive department, especially the Department of Defense, which now spends more than half the government's annual appropriation, thinks only of results; the legislative department thinks also of the cost to taxpayers.

THIS IS what the Founding Fathers had in mind when they created a government of checks and balances.

They never promised it would be popular with those who were checked and balanced.

They only hoped the checks and balances would work reasonably well, and in that respect their foresight was clear.

Last Days In The Classroom

The final days of the present term of school are tinged with a special sentiment for a number of veteran district teachers who have decided to end their careers in the classrooms.

There is a certain kind of sadness in retirement for anyone who has spent a lifetime on a job, be it a tin smith, chicken farmer, potter, foundry employe, whatever.

But for the teacher who spends nine months of each year with a group of young people, helping them to learn, watching them develop toward adulthood, there is a human relationship and a host of warm memories apart from most other careers. We have known capable and considerate teachers, and we have known others on the lower scale of educational competency.

Those who have labored faithfully and effectively to teach our young people, enduring the hundreds of discomforts and aggravations which children, parents and school policies bring over the years, rate a real expression of thanks from their students and the mothers and fathers of the students.

No certificate or plaque or engraved watch pays tribute to the good teacher as well as the lasting memory of former pupils who can recall how they were guided, given insight into life by a devoted man or woman in front of a blackboard.

Studying Ohio Speed Laws

Gov. Rhodes has promised a study to clear up the confusion that will grow out of an Ohio Supreme Court ruling that 35 miles an hour is legal speed on a through street even though it is classified as a 25-mile residential street. Traffic officials have asked for clarification.

While the study is in the works, it might go the whole distance and clear up for Ohioans what their state's speed-limit laws are all about.

There is an obvious connection between highly excessive speed and danger. And it is true that highly excessive speed is relative to the place where a vehicle is being operated. A car going 50 miles an hour on an expressway is being driven too slow. A car moving 35 miles an hour in a congested area on a through highway may be going too fast.

The need is for realistic definitions of speed.

When the speed limit on freeways outside municipal limits was raised to 70, some Ohioans deplored the increase, calling it too fast. But in fact 70 is not excessive on a well-designed freeway, where many vehicles consistently are driven faster than that in safety. And in fact Ohio now recognizes that too-slow driving is as serious a menace to safety in some circumstances as too-fast driving.

The residential limit of 25 may be realistic in some instances, but is absurd in general, because in today's urban sprawl a residential area may run on for great distances. In the same way, a 35-mile posted limit on a through highway becomes absurd if drivers consistently go faster than that.

The aim should be realistic speeds, completely removed from the outworn concepts of horse-and-buggy locomotion and the proverbial Sunday driver—realistic speeds and strong enforcement. It might be a good idea also to re-examine Ohio's prima facie speed limit law, which makes the motorist responsible for proving he was operating inside the limit, instead of making the police responsible for proving he was operating outside it.

If there's going to be an Ohio speed law review, it should review everything. Unrealistic speed limits that defy enforcement create an attitude of public disregard for all speed limits.

Make The Move

It's getting near the moment of truth for the East Liverpool High School Concert Choir — will the members earn the necessary money to take the June trip to the New York World's Fair?

The boys and girls have worked hard at fund raising by washing cars, selling records, tackling other projects. But they are $1,900 short of the money needed for the trip set for June 3.

If you are among those who plan to help, but just haven't made the move yet, make the move — send a contribution to Box 708, and let East Liverpool have a part in the World's Fair.

Surviving Bobby

The Bobby Baker Inquiry will be fudged out of sight, if all goes well in the U.S. Senate, by smearing it with a sugar-coated proposal for a code of senatorial ethics.

Then, when public concern has been diverted from the diodes of Democratic clerk Bobby when he was wheeling and dealing under the tutelage of experts, the code of ethics will be filed and forgotten — and everything will be as before.

It means nothing for outsiders to view this with alarm.

No outsider can impose his views on senators and representatives. They are the source of the law. If they renege on the trust placed in their hands, all of us will squish down the drain together.

This republic needs good examples to stiffen its moral fiber. The prestige of government rises and falls with events. At this particular moment in history the prestige of Congress is falling.

THE IMPESSION has been made that our legislators, like the legislators of the unmourned Fourth Republic of France, are playing politics like a game, instead of a mission for the preservation of freedom.

They are trying to keep step with wheelers and dealers who are setting the pace. They are so busy looking after themselves they have lost sight of the republic that has been placed in their keeping. They are using government to enhance themselves, instead of using their skill and influence to enhance government.

They are ruthless in casting aspersions on the integrity of others called on to serve in official positions but callous about aspersions against themselves. They demand full disclosure of the special interests of businessmen who accept appointments but refuse, with a few exceptions, to tell what axes they are sharpening.

Moreover, when this is mentioned they reply that they are as good as anyone else, as if that were enough. It isn't.

By Truman Twill

They must be better than anyone else in this country. They must be the exemplars of all the American virtues, or this whole experiment in popular government was doomed to failure from the beginning, just the way the cynics insisted it was in the 18th century.

THE CYNICS SAID popular government would put a premium on the least worthy among us because opportunists would find it easiest to get elected and stay elected.

They said our senators and representatives would turn into agents of treasury raiders and abusers of public power.

They said the representatives of the people would become oppressors because they would be ordinary people and ordinary people could not be trusted with power.

That's why it is not enough to be as good as anyone else when serving in a public office. Public officials should be better than anyone else.

What Bobby Baker did with his wheeling and dealing is past and gone. The country could survive Bobby. Whether it can survive the absence of ethics that gave him his chance to feather a nest while serving on the public payroll for public peanuts — that is the question.

U.S. Military Squabbles In Viet Nam

By BEVERLY DEEPE

SAIGON

The merger of two American military headquarters in South Viet Nam is known around Saigon as "the Westmoreland coup." It was preceded not only by some typical inter-service infighting, but by a sharp intra-mural squabble among Army officers as well.

The "coup" takes its names from Lt. Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the young, tough deputy commander of Military Assistance Command, Viet Nam (MAC-V). He will become commander of all U.S. troops in Viet Nam when Gen. Paul D. Harkins retires this August.

Gen. Westmoreland apparently decided to press for the merger months ago when he was first posted to Saigon. Eventually the proposal pitted Army generals against each other, according to highly informed sources, and the sounds of battle reverberated from Saigon to Pacific headquarters in Hawaii to the Pentagon.

"The Americans always accuse the Vietnamese generals of spending too much time fighting each other instead of the Communist guerrillas," one Vietnamese businessman said. "But they are just as bad."

THE ORIGINAL Westmoreland plan recommended changing MAC-V from a joint command of Army, Navy and Air Force to a specified command in which one service would be superior.

In this case, it would be the Army, since the anti-Communist war here is mostly a ground operation and most American personnel are Army.

Air Force and Navy commanders predictably opposed the move. But Army generals in the Military Assistance Advisor Group (MAAG) were also opposed, as was Maj. Gen. Richard Stillwell, formerly operations chief of MAC-V but recently promoted to chief of staff.

According to reliable sources, Gen. Harkins, current MAC-V commander, reluctantly went along with the Westmoreland scheme.

The plan was then submitted to the next higher headquarters — commander-in-chief, Pacific. Adm. Harry D. Felt wrote a "strongly expressed dissenting view" and forwarded it to the Joint Chiefs of Staff in Washington.

Air Force and Navy chiefs automatically vetoed the scheme, which would curtail their authority in Vietnam. The Army voted for it. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara brought up the subject of merging commands during his March visit and presumably studied the problem in Washington.

IT ISN'T KNOWN in Saigon whether President Johnson was consulted or advised on the matter. By mid-April, however, original recommendation to give the Army full control in Viet Nam, but did approve a merger of MAC-V and MAAG.

The merger's aim: "Eliminating duplication of functions and improving responsiveness," according to Directive 10-2, dated April 25, and signed by Maj. Gen. R. G. Weede, then chief of staff.

It was originally predicted there would be a small-scale cut in American administrative and staff personnel by "disestablishment" of one headquarters. But instead the personnel figures jumped.

"This is really Parkinson's Law," an American civilian joked. "We trim and we trim—but come out with more people."

Before the merger, there were 3,400 personnel attached to both MAAG and MAC-V. But this has now increased by at least 300 by the adding of two-man teams of an American captain and sergeant in 100 districts in the provinces.

This is considered an important indication of increased American involvement at lower military and government levels.

Officially, American military sources say there are 15,500 American personnel in Viet Nam. However, unofficially, they admit the number has jumped to 18,000 in the past several months.

THE FIGURE is roughly equivalent to an American division, which in normal circumstances would be commanded by three generals. However, in Viet Nam there are currently 14 generals — and it once peaked to 19 generals, all stationed in Saigon.

The resulting bureaucracy, duplication and red tape was a frequent source of gripes — and humor — for Americans based in the field and gave rise to a much-appreciated ditty often sung at a popular bar:

Oh, dear, what can the matter be,

Nineteen generals and no strategy—

American GIs in the field often called the chief headquarters "MAC-VC" — VC is the abbreviated version of the Viet Cong Communist guerrillas.

The merger brings to a close the granddaddy American headquarters of MAAG and the resulting transfer of MAAG chief, Maj. Gen. Charles J. Timmes, the enthusiastic, dynamic general who has served in Viet Nam longer than any other general officer.

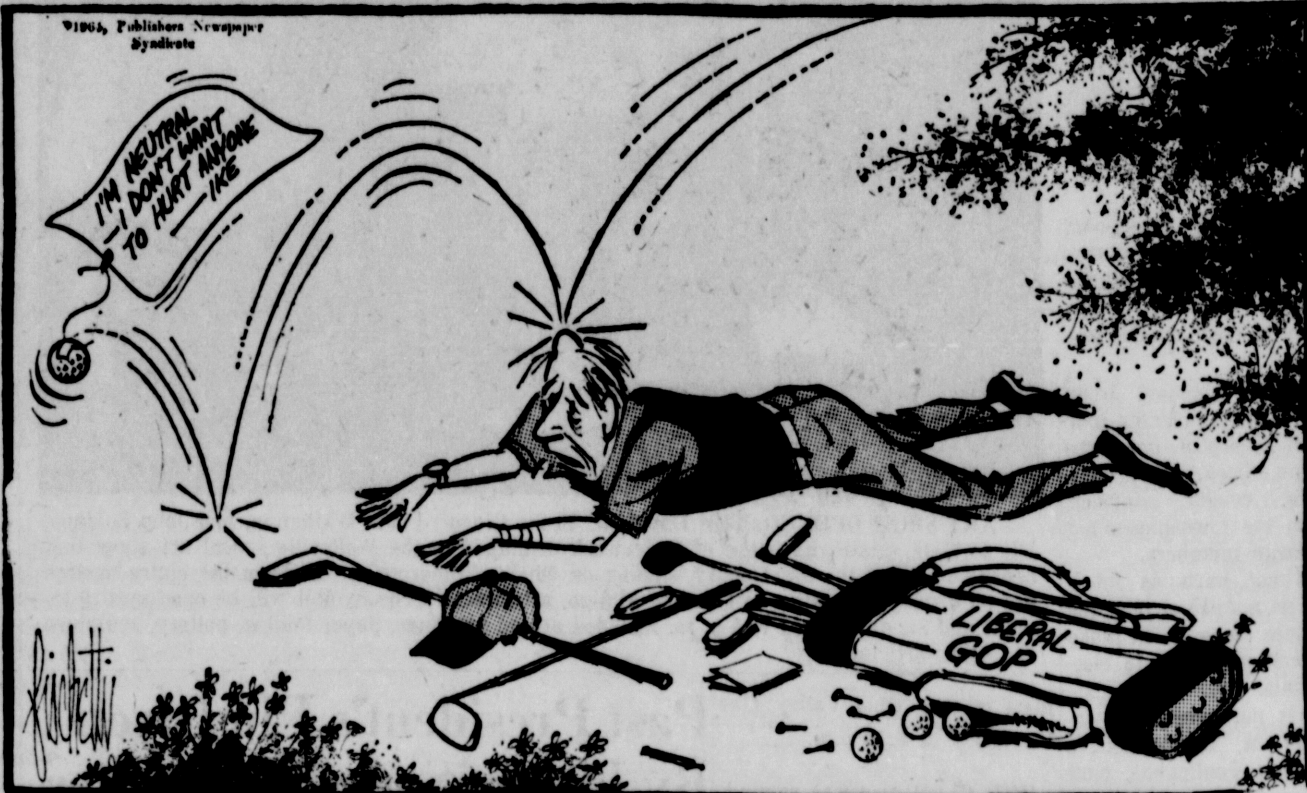

MAAG UNITS are scattered in allied countries throughout the world, primarily to issue and check the distribution of American military equipment and to advise other nationalities on its proper use and care. But the 3,000-man MAAG in Viet Nam was the largest, and it was unique.

It was founded in Viet Nam shortly after the close of the French-Indochina War. According to the Geneva agreement of 1954, MAAG personnel were limited to fewer than 700. When it was obvious that the Communist guerrillas had broken the agreement by systematic infiltration in late 1960, the U.S. began to increase its strength the next year.

All American personnel in Viet Nam are called "advisers." In fact, the term applies only to the 3,000 MAAG troops — or "Co Van My," as the Vietnamese call them. They are the key — and elite group in Viet Nam — for they work directly with Vietnamese battalion, regimental, division and corps commanders.

They go to battle when their Vietnamese counterparts go. They eat rice and fish heads in the "boondocks." Their assignment is to "advise and train" — but not to command — which leads to extreme frustrations for energetic American officers. There was considerable truth in Gen. Harkins' jest that MAAG meant the "most accepted, aggravated group." Their orders were not to fire unless fired upon, but many of them never got a chance to fire back. More than 200 have been killed or wounded.

Eisenhower's 'Neutrality' Seen Sound

By RAYMOND MOLEY

Despite the importunities of many who have asked him to intervene in the present contest for the Republican presidential nomination, Gen. Eisenhower has unequivocally made it known that he is more concerned with the future unity of his party than in the fortunes of any prospective candidate.

Considering the lateness of the hour, this is a sound decision. Because intervention now would tend to shatter the party on the eve of an important national campaign and might possibly deny the American people the advantages of a sound two-party system.

This also is the concern of Richard Nixon. For his statements and speeches during the past few months have been designed to concentrate the attention of his party on an effective opposition — a counter force — in shaping national policies.

This should be the major concern for all Republicans. They should be concentrating their attention on the present Democratic administration and Congress rather than fighting among themselves.

EISENHOWER and Nixon are the major spokesmen of the Republican party. Only these two men have been subject in the last decade to a test at the polls in a national election. In 1956, the vote for Eisenhower was 35.5 million. In 1960, Nixon polled 34.2 million votes.

And as Eisenhower has said himself, if he had campaigned more vigorously for the Republican candidate in 1960 Nixon would not only have won but have possibly exceeded the mark in the popular vote of 1956.

Consider these figures. They exceeded any earlier vote for a Republican presidential candidate by approximately 12 million.

This consideration for Republican unity is more than a mere party matter. It concerns all Americans. For a strong two-party system is not only a foundation stone for our institutions, but a guarantee of our liberties.

Moreover, a two-party system should be composed of two truly national parties. For nearly 90 years after the Civil War we had no real two-party system. Eleven states were taken for granted by the Democratic and written off by the Republican parties.

BUT BEGINNING in 1952, the so-called solid South began to break up. In 1956, Eisenhower carried five of the eleven. In 1960, Nixon carried three, and lost, rather narrowly, five others. Nixon carried several of the large cities in the South.

The growth (it is not a revival) of the Republican party in the South has been spectacular. This development has little to do with the race question except that many citizens there are tired and disgusted because of the bitter fight between state authorities and the Democratic administration in Washington.

Rather the growth of Republicanism has paralleled the rise in population, the surging of industry and the countless new ties, cultural, industrial and political, which those states have with the rest of the nation.

A new generation has grown up which has no sympathy with the memories of Civil War and Reconstruction years. These people want to get in step with the rest of the nation. And this greater national unity should be reflected in both national parties.

THE FOREGOING may seem to some who are concerned only with what candidate will be nominated in July as a pitch for Goldwater. It is not a plea for anyone. Rather I'm attempting to say that the people who choose a candidate should concern themselves with the long-term interests of their party.

Win or lose in 1964, Republicans must continue party building. They should not permit their feelings about this or that aspect of the civil rights legislation now before Congress to continue to divide our nation into two mutually antagonistic parts. There are many other issues at stake this year and in the future.

There are other people to elect: senators, representatives, governors and state legislators. These as well as presidents make up the strength of a party.

Life must go on after November; a life which will have the same perplexities as are confronting us now.

Letter To The Editor

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

I see in the paper where the East Liverpool board of education claims it can not use tax money to finance the high school concert choir to the New York World's Fair.

If the board would investigate, I am sure it could find some means of aiding the choir financially, for I feel those kids have worked very hard through concerts and the such to get to go.

The public has done a marvelous job of supporting the choir and I think the board could meet them part of the way.

PAUL EDGELL
Andrews St.

(Editors Note: School officials and the board have been advised by Harry Bell, examiner for the State Auditor's office, there is no law permitting boards of education to expend funds for "a select group" for purposes not a part of the school curriculum. Even the use of school buses for such travel as the choir plans is doubtful, for state regulations limit special trips to 120 miles unless special state permission is obtained, and no trips are to include shows or entertainments. Supt. Paul Blair has said.)

EMPTY SPACES!

Have you ever experienced difficulty in locating the burial plot of a departed friend or relative, due to the lack of a marker? You have! Then, you know the meaning of 'empty spaces'. When humans renounce earth for solitude, then, is the time for sentimental consideration. If you have not already erected a Memorial... the natural accompaniment of proper interment... then it is your duty to fulfill this last desire. Graham and Wagner offer a complete consultant service, from the choice of a suitable cemetery site to design and erection of the family Memorial. Why not let a courteous salesman assist you in selecting a Monument from the many beautiful designs on display in our showrooms, where you can shop in privacy? You still have time to select a Monument from our display for erection before Memorial Day. We also carry a complete line of beautifully designed Bronze Markers. A simple act of attention now, can transform a barren plot to one of beauty... ever-whispering to passerby, "Some one dear lies here". Have you forgotten someone?

Group Enjoys Travel, Crafts

By ROSE NUZZO

Life takes on a new meaning for older men and women who get together and have a good time through exchange of mutual interests.

This holds true for members of the East Liverpool Senior Citizens Group who have an outlook on life that is "young in spirit" in contrast to the years their collective ages represent.

The idea of forming the group to provide a worthwhile program for the community's elderly residents, developed in the summer of 1961. Four interested persons, headed by the Rev. Carl Beighley . . . then pastor of the Calvary Methodist Church and now at the First Methodist Church at Mineral Ridge — met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pritchett of Bradshaw Ave. Miss Margaret Smith was also present. The four scheduled a planning meeting in August of the same year at the church for representatives of the community churches. Initial plans were made for the new organization.

About 28 attended the first meeting Aug. 24 in the fellowship hall of the Calvary Church at which Mrs. Emma Hall was elected president; Mrs. Victoria Willis, vice president; Mrs. Hilda Brenner, second vice president; Mrs. Grace McHenry, secretary, and Mrs. Ethel Hagerman, treasurer. Since a younger person was needed to assist with the program, Mrs. Rozella Hickenbottom of Calcutta-Smiths Ferry Rd. was asked to serve as supervisor of the group.

PRITCHETT IS currently serving as president. Other past presidents include Marlow Russell, Austin McCoy and Frank V. Shone.

The current weekly sessions, in the Parish Hall of St. Stephen's Church, attract about 100 or over.

After a few meetings at the Calvary Church the group moved to the second floor at the YMCA because the stairs at the "Y" were a problem, the meetings were transferred to the VFW Hall where sessions were held for a year before it was decided to utilize St. Stephen's Episcopal Church.

Activities during the Thursday walk-ins include playing cards, and participating in a craft class, which has proved very successful in bringing out many hidden talents of the members.

The group has enjoyed many out-of-town trips, including an appearance on the John Reed King television show over KDKA-TV, Pittsburgh, and tours at the Heinz Co. in Pittsburgh and the Oglebay Park in Wheeling.

This spring a delegation traveled by chartered buses to Washington for the annual Cherry Blossom Festival. Other recent trips were taken to the IBOP Headquarters in Williamsport and a hobby show sponsored by the Salem Citizens Group.

SPECIAL EVENTS are planned by the social and program committee during the year. These include Thanksgiving and Christmas dinners and observances of birthday anniversaries of the members, featuring special programs and refreshments.

The group also remembers the needy families by preparing food baskets at Christmas time and provides gifts of clothing to destitute families. Members of the "Sunshine Committee" cheer shut-ins and ill members with "get-well" cards or letters, while a Visiting Committee is responsible for making personal calls on the sick.

Fund raising projects consist of rummage and bake sales, public card parties and tag days.

President Johnson has proclaimed May as "Senior Citizens Month" with the theme, "Opportunities for Older Americans."

The Senior Citizens of East Liverpool have already taken advantage of opportunities for a more active and interesting life, and are looking forward to continued recreation and fellowship for those in the area 55 and older.

A salute to the Flag is led by Mrs. Maude Logan, Frank Shone and Charles Pritchett, president.

Typical of some of the skilled craft work of the group is this tray design painted by Mrs. Lula Cummins.

The women's chorus sings out as part of the program at a meeting held this week.

Mrs. Helen Kent, Mrs. Florence Russell and Mrs. Ada Dyke chat while making favors.

Various trips and projects are planned during the business sessions held at St. Stephen's parish hall.

2 New Cumberland Steelworkers Enjoy Turf Careers

By ROBERT DUFFY
Review Sports Editor

If you look close enough, you might find a little bit of "Blue Grass" country around New Cumberland.

Kentucky is considered a horseman's paradise, but two New Cumberland men, who you might say live practically in the shadows of Waterford Park, have plunged into the horse racing business.

In addition to owning horses, Harold M. Higgs and William G. Hale of New Cumberland have other things in common. Both are employed at Weirton Steel — Higgs in the 54-inch strip mill and Hale in the tin mill.

They own separate stables. Higgs is the owner of a good handicap star, I've Got Rhythm, now winning regularly at Waterford Park.

HIGGS HAD been a racing fan for many years, but only in 1961 did he become interested enough to actually participate in the sport, purchasing a cheap plater named Edgemont Lane.

He raced this thoroughbred with moderate success, then followed that venture by buying two more horses. Lochlain and Sanfonie, still part of his stable.

Higgs came into prominence recently when he bought I've Got Rhythm. The handsome brown gelding did not race in 1963 and in his initial start this year — on May 2 — he toyed with his opposition to earn a victory by defeating several of the top sprinters at Waterford Park.

In examining his previous records, one finds this good horse has competed with some of the best allowance and overnight handicap horses at such tracks as Laurel, Jamaica, Garden State and Gulfstream Park.

HIGGS IS married and the father of two children. He usually doesn't have much to say, but when questioned about I've Got Rhythm, he beams all over and can hardly contain himself discussing future plans for his star.

He said, "Not in my wildest dreams did I ever believe I would some day own a horse as good as this one, and I feel he will win his share of races wherever I decide to run him. He's as sound as a dollar now and I only hope he remains that way until he returns to the racing wars at some of the major tracks."

In the case of Hale, he grew up at Waterford Park, spending time during his summer months from high school working at various jobs around Waterford's stable area. It was there that he decided to have a horse of his own eventually.

LAST YEAR, Bill and his wife, Peggy finally realized this ambition when they acquired three horses. They later sold two and kept Scouting Sir, a 9-year-old brown gelding who earned his first victory in 1957 as a two-year-old in a $4,500 allowance race.

Although "Scouting Sir" has not been too successful in his recent outings, Bill and Peggy have become so attached to him they say "we'll probably never sell him."

When Bill isn't working at his job of Production Clerk at the Tin Mill he and his wife spend most of their time at the track working with their horse.

Toes To Spare

Cat May Have 13½ Lives

By HARRY STEWART

If a cat with the normal 16 toes, four to each foot, has nine lives, how many has one with 24 toes?

Mrs. Mary Beatty, 909 Dresden Ave., intends to find out. She has a kitten that has seven toes on each front leg and five each on the rear legs.

Mrs. Beatty said it almost appears to have two paws on each front leg. A local veterinarian said this is an "extreme in this peculiarity," especially because of the extra toes on the rear paws. Cats are occasionally born with extra toes in front, usually just one or two, but not on the rear feet, he said.

The kitten has white front paws and has been aptly named "Boots." It has long hair, almost like an Angora, and is marked with a white nose and chest. The remainder is black. It appears healthy in all other respects, Mrs. Beatty commented. She found the kitten along the road leading to Beaver Creek State Park while pleasure riding last Sunday.

It was walking along the road and Mrs. Beatty picked it up for fear it would get hit, she said.

The kitten is about six or seven weeks old. Mrs. Beatty said she always seems to be coming up with cats with some type of an deformity or oddity.

She said she owned one cat that had one blue and one green eye and another that was deaf.

Stamps In The News

The German Federal Republic has issued five new stamps each of which shows an identifying landmark or feature of five capitals of the states of West Germany, reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency.

There will be a total of 11 stamps in this set. The remaining six stamps will be issued at a later date. Each stamp bears the same denomination — 20 pfennig. One depicts the National Theater in Munich, capital of Bavaria. Another shows the Old Town Hall in Hanover, capital of Lower Saxony. A third illustrates the Health Center in Wiesbaden, capital of Hesse. A fourth features the seaport of Hamburg, a city-state. The fifth is for Kiel, capital of Schleswig-Holstein.

The John F. Kennedy 5-cent memorial postage stamp will receive its first-day ceremonies on May 29 in Boston but will go on nationwide sale the same day.

Collectors desiring first-day covers of the Kennedy stamp may send their addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Boston, Mass. 02109. The outside envelope to the Postmaster should be clearly marked "First Day Covers, John Fitzgerald Kennedy Memorial Stamp." Cover requests must be postmarked not later than May 29.

The Law

"FRIEND OF THE COURT"

Everyone has friends, but there is one kind of "friend" that few laymen realize exists. That is the "friend of the court," or "amicus curiae" in legal terminology. This "friend" may be an individual, but more than likely the "friend" is an organization which has an interest in a particular case in court.

Our system of justice rests upon the adversary theory of a trial. Here, counsel for each side have the right and duty to impress upon the court their respective contentions so that the court may better judge the merits of the case. A good judge knows that, while one side may sound good, things may change when the other side presents its argument.

Often the court allows the "friend of the court," or "amicus curiae," to come into the case at hand to present material in order that both sides may have additional arguments supported by authority.

The "amicus curiae" invariably represents clients who are not parties to the case but are interested in its outcome. With consent of the judge, the "friend," who may in actuality be a corporation, an association or individual, presents additional facts in the form of a legal brief in an attempt to clear up or highlight various portions of the problems involved.

In some instances, the "friend" may suggest an alternative which none of the parties to the suit had considered and which might be best in the public interest.

According to history, in ancient Rome any passer-by (amicus curiae) might speak up to tell the court of a possible error it might make. In English jurisprudence, which is the basis for our system of law, the friend of the court often helps point up the important issues.

For instance, suppose a little known group prints a religious leaflet in a small town. The constable arrests one of the group's followers for "littering the streets." The penalty is small, but the issue is big: Can any government unit, irrespective of size, curb freedom of the press or freedom of religion?

As the case goes to higher courts, more persons become interested — citizens, publishers and religious groups. They, too, now have a stake in any decision. Finally, the case reaches the U. S. Supreme Court. A dozen or more groups on both sides might ask the court to let them present their amicus curiae arguments.

If the court agrees, these parties, not originally involved in the suit, have actually helped influence the final decision.

Who gains by the filing of such briefs? Justice gains. The more comprehensive and earnest a discussion a court hears, the more likely in the long run it is to hand down sound opinions.

Mays Bashes 17th Homer As Giants Flatten Bucs, 8-3

Phils, Cardinals, Pizarro Chalks Up 5th For Chisox, 3-1

Cubs, Mets Victors

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Willie Mays made four hits—one without a bat.

Willie, the captain, made a big hit before the game when he turned in San Francisco's line-up card to the umpires.

Willie, the player, made three big hits during the game, collecting his 17th homer and two singles and regaining the National League batting lead while the Giants retained the league lead by walloping Pittsburgh 8-3.

Making his debut as team captain, Willie ambled to the plate before the game, and ran smack into his first inspection.

Head Umpire Chris Pelekoudas asked Mays to review the Candlestick Park ground rules. Willie did, and headed for the dugout. He never got there. Umpire Vinnie Smith, smiling broadly, asked for a repeat performance for the benefit of the other umpires.

Mays, however didn't do anything for the benefit of the Pirates.

He drove in the Giants' first run with a single in the opening inning, singled in the third before Willie McCovey and Orlando Cepeda hit consecutive homers and then hammered his homer in the sixth.

The 3-for-5 performance lifted Mays' average to .405, giving him back the batting lead he lost to Billy Williams of Chicago Thursday. Williams went 1-for-5 in the Cubs' 9-1 walloping of Cincinnati and dropped down to .393.

Elsewhere, Philadelphia's Chris Short shut out the Los Angeles Dodgers 2-0 on eight hits. St. Louis belted Milwaukee 6-1 behind Curt Simmons' three-hitter and the New York Mets edged Houston 2-1.

The Giants on Mays' line-up card rattled 16 hits off Pirates' starter Steve Blass and three successors with Tom Haller also connecting for a San Francisco homer. Ron Herbel won it with Ken MacKenzie's ninth-inning relief help.

The Cubs, shut out on two hits for five innings by Reds' starter Joe Nuxhall, erupted for seven hits and eight runs in the sixth. Williams, Jim Schaffer and Jim Stewart each drove in a pair while Billy Cowan accounted for the other run. Bob Buhl coasted for a 4-1 record.

Short, 2-1, beat the Dodgers for the fifth straight time. The Phillies scored the only run he needed against Don Drysdale, 5-3, in the sixth when Richie Allen reached base on an error, moved to third on a single by John Callison and scored on Wes Covington's sacrifice fly. Callison scored the other run in the ninth after stroking his fourth hit.

Simmons, 6-2, got home run support from Ken Boyer and Julian Javier and the combination was more than enough for the Cardinals. Felipe Alou collected two of the Braves' hits and Joe Torre the other. Torre scored the Milwaukee run when he singled in the fifth and moved around on a walk, an infield out and a fielders choice.

The Colts scored against Al Jackson in the sixth when Jim Wynn singled and raced home from first on Walt Bond's single. The Mets finally broke through in the eighth when Roy McMillan and Ron Hunt singled and Frank Thomas doubled for both runs. Larry Bearnarth got the victory with Hal Brown taking the loss.

Giardello Has Rough Time With Rivero

CLEVELAND (AP) — "You can have my share of that little guy from here on," said middleweight champion Joey Giardello after the rocky finish of a 10-round scrap with Argentina's Rocky Rivero.

Although he was hit hard at the finish, Giardello won a unanimous decision in the non-titular rematch Friday night. That was better than his split decision over the 27-year-old Rivero April 17, when only one point separated the two.

"He did his job—put me in shape for a 15-rounder," Giardello said.

"If I was 22 or 24, I'd take care of him like that," said the 33-year-old champion, snapping his fingers. "He's small—tough to get at. I couldn't get the range."

Rivero thought he should have won the decision. "I win it very big, but I don't get it. He was like this," and Rivero staggered back in a little circle, waving his arms helplessly to demonstrate.

In his second fight since winning the title from Dick Tiger last December, Giardello jabbed, counterpunched and back-peddled most of the way, but piled up points steadily.

There were no knockdowns in the nationally televised fight, but Rivero landed a right to Giardello's head in the ninth that staggered the champion.

Giardello, 164½, was most accurate with his punches in the fifth through the eighth rounds. Rivero, at 165, tried to get inside but Giardello danced away much of the time.

Rivero came on strong in the last two rounds, but Giardello was able to weather the storm and even get in a few licks himself.

Referee Mike Minnich had it 46-43, judge Herb Williams 45-44, judge Bill Thomson 46-45. The Associated Press had Giardello the winner 46-44.

Chester 'Stars' Conquer Ghosts

Howard Wilson and Chink McCauley allowed the Iowa Ghosts only two hits and the Chester City All-Stars swept a 7-0 victory over the touring showmen Friday at Chester.

Each pitcher gave up one hit. Bob Boston led Chester with a homer and single, and Peck Glover tripled with the bases loaded. D. Williams and R. Collins had the only hits by the Ghosts.

The All-Stars scored one run in the third inning on a single by Staley, a passed ball, fielder's choice, and sacrifice fly by Vern Jones. Six runs followed in the fifth inning, with Boston's homer and Glover's triple the big blows.

McCauley and Wilson fanned 10 Ghosts. The Chester softball league opens play Monday night at 6:30, with Midland opposing the Chester Merchants, followed by Chester VFW vs. Local 647 at 7:45. On Tuesday, Hancock plays T. K. Roofing at 6:30, and AVP goes against Sayre Electric at 7:45.

Tribe, Yanks, Orioles, A's Snare Wins

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Unlike most players, Juan Pizarro took a vacation this spring. American League batters wish he were still on it.

The Chicago White Sox left-hander became the league's top pitcher Friday night, winning his fifth game without a loss in Chicago's 3-1 victory over the Washington Senators.

Pizarro allowed only four hits, struck out 13 and didn't walk a batter as he lowered his earned-run average to 1.15, best among the league's starting pitchers. The triumph also kept the White Sox in first place, 20 percentage points ahead of Baltimore.

The 27-year-old Puerto Rican pitched winter league ball until mid-February, then rested while he disagreed with the White Sox management over his salary for this year. He finally signed on March 25.

He didn't make his first start until April 24, 10 days after the season started. It didn't take long, though, for Pizarro to show his left arm had none of the soreness that kept him out of action the last five weeks of 1963.

Home runs decided three of the four other games played in the American League Friday night.

Rocky Colavito's 12th homer brought Kansas City a 4-3 victory over Boston, ninth-inning homers by Sam Bowens and Johnny Orsino carried Baltimore past Minnesota 6-5, Cleveland downed Detroit 5-3 as Larry Brown hit two home runs and New York nipped Los Angeles 4-3.

Pizarro, whose strikeout total equaled the major league high for one game this season, also supplied batting punch to Chicago's attack.

His first single scored a run and broke a 1-1 tie in the fifth inning. He scored the final run after hitting another single in the seventh. Al Weis drove him in with a single.

The Senators scored an unearned run in the first on John Kennedy's double and Pete Ward's low throw to first on Bill Skowron's grounder.

The Red Sox led 2-1 going into the sixth. Two singles and one out later, Colavito smashed an Earl Wilson pitch over the left-field screen. Colavito also scored the Athletics' first run in the second when he walked and later came home on Charley Lau's sacrifice fly.

Wilson homered following a single by Roman Mejias in the fifth.

The Twins were one out away from a 5-4 victory when the Orioles struck. Reliever Gerry Arrigo had retired all 11 batters he faced, striking out the last four. Arrigo got a 1-2 count on Bowens before the youngster connected for his second homer of the game. Arrigo was removed after going 3-0 to Orsino. Bill Fischer threw a strike, then watched as Orsino belted the ball deep into the left-field bleachers.

Tony Oliva, Minnesota's rookie sensation, was beamed in the third inning by Steve Barber, who was fined $50 by umpire Al Salerno. X rays revealed no injury to Oliva, the league's leading batter.

Brown smashed a two-run homer in the first for the Indians, then connected again in the fifth. Max Alvis also homered in the first off Mickey Lolich as did Jerry Kindall in the second. Bill Freehan clouted a homer for the Tigers in the sixth.

Errors by Jim Fregosi and Billy Moran led to three Yankee runs. Tom Tresh and Joe Pepitone singled across runs in the third after Fregosi dropped a throw from Joe Adcock on an attempted force at second. Moran's fumble on a sacrifice bunt led to a run in the fourth.

Ken McBride suffered his seventh straight setback for the Angels after winning on opening day.

Glennville Looms As Track Champ

By HAL PARIS
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland Glennville loomed as the team to beat today as Ohio's scholastic track and field stars geared for final action in the state's 57th annual classic.

The upstarters were beaten by only 1½ points in the race for Class AA honors a year ago by Dayton Dunbar. Glennville had a strong shot at the crown this year, though, since the Cleveland school qualified both relay teams and performers in three other events in Friday's preliminaries.

Dunbar needs an outstanding performance from Craig Wallace, if it is to repeat. Wallace qualified in both the 100- and 220-yard dashes and just missed in the 120-yard high hurdles. He also has a crack in the broad jump.

In Class A, Cincinnati DePorres has a chance to retain its 1963 title but will have to thwart the challenge of ambitious Fairport Harbor.

Fairport Harbor picked up three points in the shot put and placed entries in four events and both relay teams in the finals.

Despite perfect weather conditions and Ohio State University's new asphalt-rubber track, Friday's activity produced no startling results.

One state record was tied when Roy Frazier of Warren Market zipped the 100 in :09.9 in a semifinal try.

But there were some fine individual matches shaping up on today's program.

Jim Ward, Columbiana's stellar sprinter, and Columbus Central sprinter George Trammel qualified in the 100, 220 and 440-yard dashes, giving them a chance at the first sprint triple since Dave Mills of Lakewood scored the triple in 1958.

In the lone Class AA event completed, William Lenkaitis of Youngstown South copped the discus with a heave of 172 feet, 10¼ inches. He won the event as a soph two years ago for Strongsville and was runnerup in 1963.

In small school field events, Merlyn Michiellis of Tontogany Otsego won the shot put with a 53-foot, 6¼-inch performance. The pole vault went to Richard Steele of Newton Falls Braceville, with 12-8, and the broad jump to David Miller of Georgetown with a 21-6¼ effort.

AFL Delays Until 1966 To Admit Any New Teams

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
KANSAS CITY (AP)—Relaxed and optimistic American Football League owners have decided to wait at least until 1966 to admit new cities into the league. The AFL expansion committee will carry the ball until then.

Joe Foss, AFL commissioner, said questionnaires will be sent in the next few weeks to the 20 groups involving 34 individuals from more than a dozen cities expressing interest in joining the league, which starts its fifth season in the fall.

The committee headed by Lamar Hunt, Kansas City owner, will screen the backgrounds of all individuals and study drawing potential and facilities in each area.

"A team or two might be voted into the league in 1965," Foss said, "but no new teams will be fielded until 1966."

Prime reason for the great interest in AFL franchises is the five-year, $36-million television contract signed with National Broadcasting Co.

Foss was given a new three-year contract at a raise in pay, bringing his salary close to $50,000. Milt Woodard, assistant commissioner, also received a pay hike.

Duty Of Sea—Keeping Ship's Log

By JOHN BOHANNAN

One of the time-honored duties of the sea is keeping the ship's log. When this is followed by the skipper of a pleasure boat, it can offer valuable information during the daily operation of the craft, and be a source of pleasant reference to revive memories during the off season and in the years to come.

At first it may seem like a chore and an annoying distraction from the fun at hand, but once log-keeping becomes a habit it's no trouble at all.

Logs can be simple or detailed, depending on the type of boating you do. The book can be a do-it-yourself project, with columns ruled in note book pages, or you can buy a printed log book with leatherette binding.

ONE of the simplest books we've seen devoted to the front part to a guest registry, showing the name, date, address and the place and time the guest came aboard.

The remainder of the book was devoted to boat business, with blanks to be filled in showing date, time and port of departure, destination, time of arrival and weather. At the bottom of each page was a space for remarks, which could be used to fill in useful information such as the distance between ports and the amount of fuel used.

In the back of this book was a section devoted to expenses, with columns for date, item and amount.

FOR THE SKIPPER who does any offshore boating and who must take his piloting seriously, a more detailed log is a necessity.

One we purchased for use this season has the name of the boat, the name and address of the owner and the home port on the first page. The second page is devoted to a compass deviation table.

Succeeding pages carry the leading "cruise from (blank) to (blank) date (blank)" and the columns beneath are for time, arrival or departure, place, distance to next point, R.P.M.'s, speed, ETA next point, true course, magnetic course, compass course, leeway course steered and weather. Each line is for a point-to-point passage, or could be used as port-to-port if the top heading is to be neglected and the page used for short trips only.

A LARGER log book for cruising has a speed table in addition to the deviation table showing speed vs. engine revolutions per minute, and at the bottom of each log page there's a space for remarks, plus a fuel consumption table showing the number of gallons in the tanks at the start, hours run, gallons taken aboard, place and gallons consumed per hour.

Blanks also are provided for data on filling fresh water tanks and checking crankcase oil. If you have a marine radio-telephone, the FCC requires that you keep a separate log with pages consecutively numbered.

The radio log book we have, which meets all requirements, has columns reading from left to right: date, time in Greenwich or local standard, frequency in kilocycles, call letters of station worked, time of maintaining watch on 2181 kc, ship's position, remarks, and the operator's signature.

Whenever a distress call is heard on 218 kc, it should be logged, including the names and call letters of boats involved.

Questions and Answers
Q. Is a log book required for a citizen's band radio telephone?

A. No.
Q. Can the Coast Guard demand to see the log book of a pleasure boat?

A. It must be made available on request following an accident.

Nautical Terms
ETA — Estimated time of arrival.

Magnetic Course — A true course modified to the extent of the magnetic variation of the locality, as shown on the chart.

Compass Course — A magnetic course modified to the extent of the compass deviation on any particular heading.

Leeway — The lateral movement of a boat to leeward of her course. Practically, it is expressed as a correction angle in degrees for steering to produce a crab angle to take the boat along the true course.

Man Robs Bank, Captured Later Hiding In Tree

NEW YORK (AP) — A man robbed a Corona, Queens, bank Friday of $6,000 and was captured 30 minutes later, hiding in a tree.

Police said George Lubrano, 25, an unemployed Corona hairdresser, had entered the Queens County Savings Bank and presented letter Joseph Verdore with a note warning him to fill a paper bag and "don't try anything."

Verdore stuffed the bag with $6,000 in bills and pressed an alarm button.

Police formed a cordon around the area. Several blocks away Lubrano was found in a 30-foot tree. He had hidden the money behind a nearby garage. The $6,000 was intact.

Lubrano was charged with assault and robbery.

Hanoverton Rite Slated Sunday To Honor Dr. Pelley

HANOVERTON — As part of its annual Memorial Day program tomorrow, this village will dedicate a plaque honoring the memory of the late Dr. H. J. Pelley, a country physician for 60 years, who died at 98 last Aug. 22.

The ceremony will begin at 1 p.m. in front of the Old Town Hall, with the United Local High School Band leading a parade. Children will march to the village playground to dedicate the plaque and rename the grounds as Memorial Park in honor of Dr. Pelley. Camp Fire Girls will plant a tree.

In a ceremony afterward at Grove Hill Cemetery, R. Dale Miller of Lisbon will give the Memorial Day address. The Rev. James Kolp of St. Philip Neri Church at Dunganon will give the invocation. The program also will include band music, the Gettysburg Address, a firing squad salute and "Taps."

Dr. Pelley was the only physician in this area for many years. He saw most of the babies he delivered grow up in the community and rear their own families.

Questionnaires listing 10 issues to be voted on in the session of the Congress under way in Washington are being circulated by Rep. Wayne L. Hays among his 18th Congressional District constituents.

"I am sending this questionnaire so that you may have an opportunity to submit your views on some of the issues that will be voted upon in this session of the Congress," the large postcard says.
